

A.R.E./Glad Helpers' International Prayer List

OCTOBER 2024

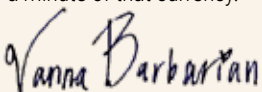

Dear Prayer and Healing Friends,

Happy October! In Genesis 8:5, the Bible tells us "And the waters continued to abate until the tenth month [Teret, from the Jewish calendar]; in the tenth month, on the first day of the month, the tops of the mountains were seen." This is a wonderful season to embrace the changes around us.

With so many diverse cultures celebrating this time of year, there seems to be a theme of connection. The word October comes from the Latin octo, the eight is infinite and un-breaking, which can be a symbol of regeneration and resurrection. The opportunity of each day approaches us and it's our duty to welcome it with open arms, each day new and full of potential.

We do not have to live crammed into boxes we have conditioned ourselves to be in. We can wake up as whoever we want to be each day. Be the artist of your own reality and paint the world.

Our time is like currency. We spend it daily without knowing how much of it we have left. One day the limit runs out, but if we live every day seeking that divine purpose within each of us, we will have never wasted a minute of that currency.

Honoring Those Who Have Come Before Us Savanna Barbarian

In Mexico children trick-or-treat while leading up to Dia de los Muertos (Day of the Dead.) In Ireland and Scotland Samhain is celebrated. In Austria people celebrate Martini and some leave out bread, water, and lamps to welcome back passed-on spirits. In Belgium on Halloween night some people light a candle in memory of a deceased relative.

In one way or another, no matter what day one celebrates, at some point we all find ourselves honoring those who have come before us. If a person alive today went back 30 generations, we could have around one billion ancestors each! Every person has lined up to create the perfect space and time for all of us to be here now. If we recognized this each day, would we have more appreciation for our current experience in the earth? Would we see how divinely magical it is that we are here today? Would we recognize the gift it is to be alive today completing our mission on earth?

On days when we feel sad or discouraged, what if we reminded ourselves of those who came before us and carved out a path so we could be here right now? It's a thought that could fill us with gratitude. Saying a prayer to those we have lost can be healing. According to Mr. Cayce, our loved ones are waiting on the other side of the veil to hear our voices speaking their names.

An A.R.E. member called us to ask some questions regarding information about his membership. He told us that it was because of his wife that he knew about this organization.
